

The Resilient Research Writer: A Free Six-Week Programme to help you improve both your resilience and your writing output

This is a free six-week writing programme to help researchers become more resilient so that they can produce writing more efficiently and effectively under challenging circumstances. There will be two x 50-minute sessions per week, for six weeks.

- Each week, the first session will explore a tool to help researchers be more resilient.
- The second session of the week is a 'Structured Writing' activity: to boost productivity of their own writing – whether articles, books or theses – this session is in four parts:
 - Part 1: setting of intentions: what do participants want to achieve in this session
 - Part 2: a short writing 'warm up'
 - Part 3: participants getting on with their own writing
 - Part 4. A short writing 'cool down'

Host by	Dr Matt Lane, The Researcher Development Partnership, Cambridge www.therdp.org
Target audience	Researchers who would like to boost their resilience and academic writing output
Language	English
Dates	Week 1: Monday 8 th Jun and Wednesday 10 th Jun Week 2: Monday 15 th Jun and Wednesday 17 th Jun Week 3: Wednesday 24 th Jun and Friday 26 th Jun Week 4: Wednesday 1 st Jul and Friday 3 rd Jul Week 5: Monday 6 th Jul and Wednesday 8 th Jul Week 6: Monday 13 th Jul and Wednesday 15 th Jul
Time	5.00pm-5.50pm Beijing Time (10.00am-10.50am UK time)
Link to registration	https://us02web.zoom.us/meeting/register/tZYkc-6uqDsoGdCmPeX49-8pUwC53AQjEUPK Important note: Please register with your academic email address by 9am UK time Saturday 6th June to receive the joining codes. This is a closed programme for partner institutions, please do not forward to the public. Thanks!

